

Keshab Thapa

Transportation and Logistics Graduate Student

Program: Civil and Environmental Engineering Department (Major in Geotechnical Engineering)

Hometown: Jhapa, Nepal (Mount Everest: Top of the world)

What do you like to do in your spare time? I like to cook food and spend time with my family.

Why did you pick NDSU? NDSU is an exclusive university with a preferable engineering program.

What extra-curricular activities are you involved in? I am the vice-president of Material Research Society (MRS) NDSU Student Chapter. Additionally, I have been working as the International Student Liaison of Conversational English Club at NDSU and I encourage international students to join weekly meeting to make new friends, learn about different cultures, and practice English.

What are your goals or future plans? I am looking for the opportunity to utilize the skills that I have developed during my years on research. I can grow and take on new challenges over time in geotechnical engineering as well.
