

Adam Courtright
Transportation and Logistics Graduate Student
Program: Managerial Logistics

Hometown: Fort Lee, Virginia

What are some of your hobbies? I enjoy woodworking and cooking.

How did you become interested in your field of study? Cancer, interesting enough, led me to the field of logistics. As an undergraduate of helicopter flight school, I was diagnosed with ocular melanoma (eye cancer). This forced me to change my career field within the military to logistics.

What do you like to do in your spare time? I enjoy woodworking in the garage to create furniture and other items for friends and family.

What are your goals or future plans? My ultimate goal is to own a small farm that supports the local community through sales of produce and education to children and young adults.
