

Jonathon Nield is from Seattle Washington. He earned her B.S. from Arizona State University and is pursuing his Masters in Transportation and Urban Systems. He has always been interested in aviation, and through work experience was able to see there that there were major breakdowns in how the various transportation systems work together. In his spare time, Nield enjoys staying active between his triathlon tea, swim masters, and plans to climb Mount Rainier in Washington this year.