Jinat Rehana studied at Dhaka University in Bangladesh before attending North Dakota State University. She is currently studying transportation economics and plans to graduate with her PhD in in transportation and logistics in 2020. Rehana is studying land use changes in North Dakota. In her spare time she enjoys origami, movies, and music.